

Sometimes on Saturday, Patrick would help his parents wash and polish their motorcycles. He liked to see how shiny he could make the chrome.

Mostly though, he liked to sit up proudly on the motorcycles and pretend he was on an adventure riding high up in the mountains or along an ocean far, far away.